

Black Sand and Starless Nights

When Starless came out with "Good Question" in 2005, people couldn't stop talking about it all around their local town of Metuchen, New Jersey. It really isn't hard to see why either. The duo (Bill Kachersky and Mike Vassallo) would continue to collaborate with producer Patrick from Frozenn Studios, who was partly responsible for their distinct sound. After extending to a full band line-up in 2007, the band went under hiatus, and later, stating they had broken up. One of the tragedies of the year...

Abridged Pause is here to bring their music where it belongs! And you can be sure we will fulfill that goal some day.
