Bonfires for Nobody

Bonfires for Nobody is the newest band of Jordan Leal, who was on Abridged Pause Recordings with his last band, Ethereal Beauty. A split between Ethereal Beauty and Vision Éternel has been in-the-making for the last 3 years, and since Jordan has “sort of” changed the band name to Bonfires for Nobody, the split with Vision Éternel will be released with this new band.

Bonfires for Nobody has recently given us the information that the last 3 songs recorded under the name Ethereal Beauty would be used for the Vision Éternel/Bonfires for Nobody split 7″, and the 7 songs recorded after the name change would be released as their first full-length album, “Moments Like These” also on Abridged Pause Recording.